PRINCIPAL'S ADDRESS

The Annual Day 2023

Namaskāra,

It is a matter of great joy for an institution or an academic body that the students who are enrolled or who have been taught are given a day, fully dedicated to celebrate their hard work, commitment and dedication when their achievements are certified, acknowledged and awarded. Today is that very day, which we call the Annual Day of the College, when we all gather to see together the exuberance and high flying energy of all our young and talented minds, preparing themselves to touch any height of success in present as well as in future, and determined to bring a number of accolades and laurels to their alma mater without any doubt.

As we all know about the global pandemic of Covid-19 which took over all the countries of the world in its grip, it was only last year February 2022 onwards, we were able to meet our students in person. It's not that the pandemic has only harmed or destroyed the humanity in many ways, but, in fact, it has also taught us many lessons to learn from life. It has taught us that life is transitory so there's no need to hurry or worry for anything. The best way as ever has been to live the present moment and try to do as many good things to people as one can. To engage in any kind of hatred or blame-game is not just futile but also an unnecessary step which all of us should get away with. What's, in reality, necessary is to be total in every moment that passes by. It is this totality of 'being' in a work that makes it a worship. And when work becomes worship, the result is nothing but ecstasy, the ecstasy which translates itself into everlasting happiness, which all of us are searching in life. And this has been a great message from our own very soil, which is condensed in Bhagwana Sri Krishna's Gita as –

Karmaṇyevādhikāraṣṭe Mā Faleṣu Kadācana, Mā Karmaḥalahaeturbhurmā Te Saṃgo'stvakarmani.

Apart from the messages that cautioned every human being to be conscious of his/her health and make sanitizer and mask a part of his/her daily life, the Covid- 19 brought our attention to many new dimensions which have now become common affairs of our day-to-day life style: be it an on-line meeting or using digital interface for communication or conducting our classes or workshops through hybrid mode or using different social media platforms for disseminating information or so on and so forth. When, last year, we came to offline mode from online, and at sometimes we have been both online and offline, it became very difficult for the teachers as well as the students to cope up with the new situation. It was very arduous, strenuous and challenging. But all our teachers and students did their best and came out of this whole new mess successfully.

I would like to thus congratulate all the teachers who have put in all their energy to make the teaching-learning process as smooth as possible in the moment of utter crisis as we faced in recent years. You all have given all your time without asking anything extra in return. You all have sacrificed your summer vacations. You all have gone beyond all measures to help our students. The College would like to salute you all and would like to express that it's you who have made what KMC stands today –

Tall, Towering and Tempestuous
Cautioned, Composed and Continuous

The College has gone through a massive change and shift in terms of its faculty strength and promotion of teachers in the span of last one year. We have done appointments on permanent basis very quickly and today we are about to finish all of them very soon. We have done 91 permanent appointments till date. Promotions of teachers also being the top priority, I would like to say it with a great proud feeling that there's no pending promotion of any of our faculty members till date. We have right now 33 Professors, 57 Associate Professors along with every eligible teacher having been promoted from one stage to the other senior stage.

The College library has now become the best place to cherish the world with books available in physical as well as in e-forms. The additional top floor in the library building has helped us in many other facilities library is able to provide now-a-days. The College has also done great in terms of electricity by installing many solar panels on the top of the Heritage Building. The College is now DBT Star College among all Delhi University colleges and is also known for CDRT, a Centre for Disability Research and Training, which is run by Prof. Someshwar Sati, the 1st Professor of English Department of our College.

One of the best achievements that the College had in the last academic year 2022- 23 has been the accreditation by NAAC in the month of December 2022. It's something which not only I but every Kirorian would like to say proudly that KMC has taken us ahead from its 1st Cycle of Accreditation. So, KMC is now A++ with 3.54 CGPA.

When I say KMC is A++, I want everyone not to forget that we have got this grade when we are yet to have a Girls' Hostel and the renovation of our Auditorium. You can imagine the growth of KMC in time to come when we will have both of them. I'm sure KMC will take a quantum leap in all India rankings. Further, we have also improved our NIRF taking from Top 20 to Top 10. At present, we are one of the best and premier institutions of the country which students wish to get admission in.

Amidst all this happiness, I further state that the Alumni Meet 2023 has also been a great success when we were able to enliven the feeling of nostalgia among all our Alumni after a long gap of 6 years after 2017. With a heavy heart, I remember the sudden departure of one of our most cherished Alumni, Shri Satish Kaushik Ji, who has been very supportive and active in bringing back the glory of Auditorium. But I can feel his energy every time which will be guiding us throughout and his dream project of the KMC Auditorium will be accomplished in near future. I also remember KK, one of the best playback singers KMC has ever produced and Hindi Cinema has ever known in its history.

Friends, nothing is impossible for a Kirorian. I know the KMC has produced the Best of the Best talents that are engaged in serving the Nation and the Globe around the world. It is a dream of every Kirorian which we are committed to fulfil that the KMC Auditorium after its renovation be inaugurated by our Mega Alumnus, Shri Amitabh Bachchan ji, who has always been supportive and expressed his cordial gesture to the College every time without fail.

With these words, let's celebrate our work, our commitment and our dedication to ourselves, our college and our society.

Jai Hind! Jai Bharata!

She also talked about the general precautionary measures like avoiding eating or drinking in labs, not applying cosmetics, tied hair and also warned the students to always use a pipette dispenser for sucking acids or bases. She also enlightened the students about the various ways of disposing of chemicals about which she specifically mentioned that the liquid chemical wastes should be drained by flushing with water and the solid chemical wastes are always to be first diluted with sand and then disposed off in a chemical disposal pit. She further emphasized that chemicals should neither be ingested nor be inhaled directly, and, if required, one should smell the chemical by the method of wafting, and not directly. Moving ahead, she made the audience aware about various pieces of information cited on the labels of storage bottles, including its chemical name, molecular weight, melting point/boiling point, health hazards, various symbols drawn over it, its color, number coded labels, different materials in which these chemicals are stored along with emergency phone numbers. She then talked about the Material Safety Data Sheets (MSDS) and asked the students to download WISER and SDS mobile apps that contain all the information of various chemicals. To make the students conscious of the probable laboratory hazards, she also recalled some accidents that had happened in labs while working and concluded by again emphasizing upon precautionary methods that one needs to take care of while working in a chemistry lab. Following this, there was an interactive question-answer segment which was conducted.

other universities, participated enthusiastically in the Programme. The Principal of the College gave a short speech and encouraged all the participants. Prof. Reena Saxena, DBT Star coordinator of the Department, explained the 5 day Programme in details, and explained that JMol is a computer software for molecular modelling chemical structures in 3-dimensions. JMol returns a 3D representation of a molecule that may be used as a teaching tool for research in chemistry and biochemistry. Then Dr. Kiran Arora, TiC of the Department was invited to honour the guest.

Inaugural session was held on 31st March 2023, in the Academic Auditorium of the College. Dr. Divya Nayar, Assistant professor, Department of Material Science and Engineering, IIT, Delhi, was invited to deliver a lecture on ‘Molecular Modeling and Computer Simulation Methods in Chemistry’. The session began with a discussion on how lab experiments can be simplified and done through software by using ‘Computational Chemistry’. She further gave the reference of the Covid time and told that how the various experiments were done through computational chemistry. Molecular modelling encompasses all methods, theoretical and computational, used to model or mimic the behaviour of molecules. The methods are used in the fields of computational chemistry, drug design, computational biology, and materials science to study molecular systems ranging from small chemical systems to large biological molecules and material assemblies. She then gave example of water molecule and how its model is made by using various bond lengths and bond angle. Following this, an interactive question-answer session was conducted in which the students cross-questioned Dr. Divya. Dr. Ruchi Sharma Pandey, Assistant Professor, Department of Chemistry proposed the formal vote of thanks to the speaker. The event was a massive success attended by more than 120 participants from different colleges and universities of Delhi.

DEPARTMENT OF HISTORY

Teacher-in-Charge: Mr. Dhiraj Kumar; Staff Advisor: Dr. Amit Kumar Suman

The Department of History has a great history of events managed and excelled by an enabling unknit, the selection of which happens through a rigorous process. It is why the Leadership Committee's establishment marked the beginning of an exciting academic year for the Kirori Mal College History Department in 2022-2023. The selection of students for various positions of responsibility among the first, second and third years was based on their credentials and the opinion of the department. Each student is in-charge of planning activities and liaising with teachers and asset persons. The Office Bearers of Legacy: The History Society are – Aashi Tyagi & Shiraj Khan: President; Kashvi Sachdeva & Kiran: Vice-President; Saharsh Pandey & Ayushi: General Secretary; Prem Kumar: Joint Secretary; Akshit Kumar Bhadauria & Saurabh Rana: Treasurer; Siddharth & Pankaj: Sports Committee Convener; Pravishiti & Shambhavi: Social Media Committee Convener; Rimi & Muskan: Cultural Committee Convener; and Vanshika: Seminar and Journal Head.

On 20th July 2022, a few of Legacy's inquisitive third year and second year students set out to explore the new Pradhanmantri Sangrahalaya at Teen Murti Estate in New Delhi, and brought back these beautiful glimpses of the memories displayed there. The Museum recalls the tenures of 14 Prime Ministers from Jawaharlal Nehru to Manmohan Singh, and the various challenges they faced while leading the country. It tells the story of how our Prime Ministers navigated the nation through various challenges and ensured the progress of the country. Apart from this, the Museum also holds a collection of other exhibits of immense historical importance to India and the world.

The Students of Society organised a Teachers' Day Programme. It was a day full of poetry, songs, love, emotions and nostalgia. Professors shared their experiences of teaching various students through the years. Students made the event interactive and lively.

The Society organised a student-led Conversation on 'Recent Trends in History Writing' with Dr. Arun Kumar on 9th September 2022. Dr. Kumar, a Faculty members at the Department of History, University of Nottingham, United Kingdom is a historian of modern India with an interest in social, economic, education and labour history. He gave insightful details on the new historiography that has come up in the recent years, dealing with the questions of how to overcome a historian's own biases in his writing and also highlighted the same through his own recent works.

On 15th October 2022, the students of the Department under the guidance of Prof. Shahana Bhattacharya explored the ruins of Kashmiri Gate and Chandani Chowk. The first stop was the Nicholson Cemetery, formerly known as the Old Delhi Military Cemetery, just a few steps away from the Kashmiri Gate Metro Gate No.4. Students uncovered the memories of the 1857 Revolt. Brigadier-General John Nicholson had played a pivotal role in seizing Delhi during the mutiny and was among the first people who were buried there. Following that, students reached the Kashmiri Gate or Kashmiri Darwaza, which was built as a gateway of the fortified city of Shahjahanabad. The Gate symbolised the valour of sepoys of the 1857 Revolt, who assembled behind it and utilised the same to attack the British Forces. Upon going inside, one could find a stone slab memorial that pays tribute to the British soldiers and their Indian subordinates, who faced the rebels, showing the dichotomy of the history.

Following this, they explored the architectural beauty of Dara Shikoh's Library. Set inside the Ambedkar University's campus, the library was later converted into a museum by the Archaeological Survey of India. It is said to be the personal library of the Prince, used for multiple purposes during the Mughal period. But after Dara Shikoh's assassination by his step brother, Aurangzeb, during the battle for the throne, the library lost its importance. Today, it chronicles not only the ill-fated life of Dara Shikoh but also his deep interest in literature and architecture. While roaming through the busy roads of Kashmiri Gate, the students also came across the Old Hindu College which had sadly lost its former glory. The story goes via the phase when St. Stephen's college was founded, it catered only to the Europeans, and Indians were refused admission into the College. In order to give Indians nationalist education, and to stand up against the elitist outlook of St. Stephen's, a Hindu trader set up a college right next to it. Today, it consists of torn up walls with 'ABANDONED' written on them but what must be remembered here is the opportunity it provided to the Indian students during the colonial times and how it continues to do so in its newer manifestation in the Delhi University Campus now. On the second part of the walk, students set out once again to discover Chandani Chowk with a new lens. The Haveli of Begum Samru, a fascinating woman, who largely remains forgotten, was visited first. Students then went on to visit other sites like Mirza Ghalib's Haveli and Fatehpuri Masjid.

The Society honoured the history of chess, its roots in India and the legacy it carries by organising an intra-departmental chess competition on the 14th November 2022. The one-day competition was organised by the Department's Sports Committee. It was run smoothly with the help of volunteers from within the Department. It was the first Departmental event in which the first year students got an opportunity to participate with the second and third year students.

Just after a month of the Departmental excursion on 15th November 2022, The Society successfully hosted the 'Certificate Distribution and Presentation of Interim Project Report' on Chandrawal, Urban History Project of The History Society, Kirori Mal College. Guest speaker and Oral historian Dr. Richa Raj from Jesus Mary College History Department and Faculty Coordinator Dr. Shahana Bhattacharya gave valuable insights about the oral history and its importance. The Urban History Project is an initiative undertaken by the Department that imagined and initiated it in a preliminary stage in September 2018 with the aim to record and preserve the oral history of urban villages. Chandrawal was chosen as the focal point of this research due to its proximity to the North Campus. Chandrawal project focuses on observing and understanding the history of this urban village in the bustling markets of Kamla Nagar, which hosts a number of international brands. It is intriguing to ponder over the question of how this rural village of immense historical significance has transformed through centuries in the context of political, social, economic, and structural changes and how it has managed to acclimatise with the changing times. The event was a chance for the current students to reconnect with the former students, who initiated the project and to appreciate their hard work. It was a way to officially thank the batch of 2021 and 2022 for their efforts despite the hardships of the pandemic.

The Society further organised a screening of the movie 'Lincoln', a 2012 American biographical historical drama film, directed and produced by Steven Spielberg, starring Daniel Day-Lewis as United States President Abraham Lincoln on 13th January 2023. The film chronicles Abraham Lincoln as he uses his powers as the President of the United States of America, striving to abolish slavery and re-unite his country during the Civil War. The screening was an enriching experience as it familiarised students with the conditions at the time of the Civil War, which was America's bloodiest and the most divisive conflict to have put the Union Army against the Confederate States of America.

The Official Fresher's Function "PARICHAY" for the first years was organised by the Department on 17th January 2023. Professors and students both participated enthusiastically in the event. Juniors were introduced first, and then senior students performed activities, music, and dances. The students had the opportunity to demonstrate their talents, and they received titles such as Mr. and Ms. Freshers, etc. The Department had a great time at the activity, and friendships were solidified.

On 20th January 2023, students from the Department visited the 71, Lodhi Estate to participate in a volunteer training course organised by The Indian National Trust for Art and Cultural Legacy (INTACH), which was founded as a volunteer-led organisation with the mission of conserving and preserving India's tangible and intangible heritage. It has set precedents for widening the breadth and bandwidth of heritage, and pioneered an integrated and inclusive approach to its conservation over the years. It has also evolved into a people's movement with a very broad reach that represents all sections of the country with the goal of instilling the concept that every Indian is a natural guardian of his/her distinctive history. INTACH is now regarded as a key think-tank and influencer at the policy, advocacy, and grassroots levels as a result of its extensive and diverse body of work. Since its foundation in 1984, it has been a registered Society and a national level entity, dedicated to the conservation of India's architectural, natural, art & material, and intangible heritage. The workshop began with a brief definition of heritage, followed by a discussion of India's culture and monumental legacy, such as Kalidasa's Kumarrasm, describing the Himalayas, the significance of Tiger in life cycle, Sataria the endangered dance, and the relevance of heritage mentioned in Rigveda:10.161.2. The event was then resumed by three famous speakers, Dr. Swapna Liddle, Dr. Ajay Kumar, and Mr. TS Randhawa. They discussed the architecture of the Red Fort, Bada Lao Ka Gumbad (Vasant Vihar), Hastar Minar, St. James Church, and why the Parliament is located in Rasina Hills.

Students then went up for a trip around Lodhi Garden, where they learned about Mohhamed Shah's Tomb, Mehman Khana and other sites. The students were also given a tour of INTACH's preservation labs. At Last, they were given a group task with Mata Sundri College students to create a chart and present what they had done to preserve heritage and how they could contribute to INTACH.

The Society in its series of events also organised its first Heritage walk of the year 2023, led by Professor Shahana Bhattacharya in Coronation Park. The park is often referred to as the Coronation Memorial, and has served as the venue for the Delhi Durbar of 1877 when Queen Victoria was proclaimed the Empress of India. It was later also used to celebrate the accession of King Edward VII in 1903 and it was here that the Durbar commemorating the Coronation of King George V as the Emperor of India took place on 12th December 1911. The decision to hold the Coronation Durbars in Delhi at the vast open ground at Coronation Park was a move to emphasise the historical significance of Delhi as the former capital of the Mughal Empire and then the new capital of the British Empire. The main question explored by the students throughout this walk was how nations build their histories and how they deal with the parts of history that are uncomfortable. Following the Independence of India on 15th August 1947, the park has become the final resting place for some of the statues of the former British kings, governors and officials of the British Raj. The statues were moved from various locations, including Rajpath to the red stone plinths built in the park. The idea was to preserve the history that is stored in those statues however, toning down their former glory and power. The park hosts the largest and tallest statue, 15 meter high, of King George V, designed by Sir

Edwin Lutyens. This statue earlier stood atop a canopy in front of the India Gate, which now holds a statue of Netaji Subhash Chandra Bose. The other statues are those of Sir Guy Fleetwood Wilson and Viceroys Lord Willingdon, Lord Irwin, and Lord Hardinge. The park also has a Coronation Memorial, erected as an obelisk in the sprawling Coronation Park which is made up of sandstone, standing at exactly the same location where all the three Delhi Durbars were held in the past.

Afterwards, The Society successfully organised an exhilarating lecture to commemorate the legacy of Prof. Kunwar Mohammad Ashraf (1903-1962) on 23rd & 24th February 2023. The Prof. K.M Ashraf Memorial lecture was based on the theme ‘Public History: People’s Perception of the past’ to understand the dynamics and perceptions of history throughout Indian history. The event took place in the Academic Auditorium and was open for all Delhi University students. The Guest speakers for the event were eminent authors and historians Prof. Andre Wink, Dr. Shashank S. Sinha, Dr. Prabhat Kumar, and Dr. Swapna Liddle. The seminar sessions were attended by many students from various colleges. On the first day of the event, Prof. Andre Wink graced the stage and delivered the first session on the topic ‘Making of the Indo-Islamic World’, emphasising on the geographical and environmental perspectives of the Indian Subcontinent and West Asia by presenting five thesis works on the same. After a short break, Dr. Shashank Sinha gave a speech on the topic of Monuments and popular Perceptions of Indian History. He highlighted the various aspects of public history such as the academic community, versions of history, importance and potentials of monuments and museums etc. Afterward, the final speech of the first day was given by Dr. Prabhat Kumar, who focused on the various (Im)possibilities of Indian history of the World and discussed about Pandit Ramavatar Sharma and the tale of a divine sage Mudgarānad’ Caritāvalī. The event was concluded with a few interactive questions from the listeners. On the second day, Dr. Swapna Liddle gave a fascinating speech on Delhi before 1857. She focused on Delhi during the East India Company rule and the Mughal Empire and popular writings on the past. She also emphasised on public history recording and the importance of popular history. The event ended with a few question-answer sessions with the speaker.

An interactive session with Dr. Riho Isaka was held on 27th March 23. The title of the session is ‘The role of manga in letting us rethink our notion of history’. Dr. Riho Isaka is a Professor of the Department of Area Studies at the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences, the University of Tokyo. Her research interests concern issues of language, politics, food, and identity in colonial and postcolonial India, especially Gujarat.

Some of humankind’s earliest civilizations have been found in South Asia, and its cultures have coexisted for millennia in a cosmopolitan, interconnected, and constantly changing continuum. To encapsulate the socio-cultural, economic, political, and geographical richness and complexities of an area that is home to half the world’s population, an all-inclusive title is insufficient, as any history buff would know. The Kirori Mal College History Society has always been driven by a love for discovering and returning to the uncharted regions of the past and addressing the study of history from a broad perspective. So, the programme Riwaaz-e-Taarikh, a Paper Presentation Competition, is another step towards The Legacy’s goal of promoting inclusive, ground-breaking research. The KMC Journal of South Asian Studies, an initiative led by The Society aspires to focus on creating an accessible and comprehensive forum for studies, related to the subcontinent in order to preserve a history as wealthy as that of South Asia. It will be a yearly book that serves as a collection of works from both academics and students.

An Annual Fest of a Department i.e. ATEET is typically a major event that takes place once a year and is organised by the students and Staff of the college. It is an occasion for the College to showcase its talents, skills, and accomplishments to the wider community. The Fest may involve a range of activities such as cultural performances, sports competitions, academic and technical events, guest lectures, exhibitions, workshops, and social gatherings. The purpose of the Annual Fest is to foster a sense of community and collaboration among students, Faculty members, and the Staff. It provides an opportunity for students to showcase their talents and skills, to learn new things, and to interact with other students and the faculty members. It also serves as a platform for the College to connect with the wider community, including alumni, industry partners, and other institutions. Overall, an Annual Fest is an important event that not only celebrates the achievements of the College but also strengthens the bonds between the various stakeholders in the College community.

Speaker: Dr. B. S. Shylaja, Former Director, JLN Planetarium, Bengaluru

You tube link: <https://youtu.be/Dcw6aWqi0m4>

Number of Participants: More than 40.

KMC PHYSICS ASTRONOMY CLUB of the Department organised an online seminar on “INSTRUMENTS IN INDIAN ASTRONOMICAL TEXTS”. The lecture was delivered by Dr. B. S. Shylaja, former Director of JLN Planetarium, Bengaluru. The talk started with explanation of basics units of measurements and numeral systems in Indian astronomy like Ahoratram (=24Hrs), Ghati or Nadi (=24 minutes), Pala or Vighati (=24 Seconds) etc. After that the speaker mentions the YANTRAS (instruments) written in the chapter Yantradyaya of Siddhanta Siromani, an ancient astronomical treatise by Indian mathematician Bhaskara II in the year 1150. Working of the following Indian astronomical instruments were explained by the speaker:

- Gola Yantra – Spherical instrument or representing Celestial Sphere
- Nadi Valaya – To find the ascendant (Lagna)
- Ghatika and Shanku – Measuring ghatika and giving information on time and place of observation respectively
- Chakra Yantra- Measuring coordinates of celestial objects
- Phalaka Yantra- Estimating time from graphical construction
- Yashti Yantra- Estimating Latitude of the place by shadow measure
- Swaynvaha Yantra- Perpetual machine
- Dhruvabhrama Yantra- Measuring time in the night
- Dhi Yantra- Measuring latitude of the place
- Dakshinottara Bhatti yantra – Measuring Equinox marker
- Other Yantras- Chapa (Semicircle), Turya (one-fourth of circle)

March 21st is marked as the day of celestial event when the Sun crosses celestial equator, hence known for Equinox Day. At the end of the talk, the Speaker with the help of Mr. Anand (Staff at Planetarium) demonstrated the equinox marker with the instrument named Dakshinottara Bhatti yantra at JLN Planetarium. The yellow circular spot near zero marking is Sun rays coming from a hole at the top of the Yantra. When the spot is at zero, that is, the place when the Sun is at the equator.

DEPARTMENT FEST ‘NEWTONIAN 2023’:

The Department organized 2-day Annual Festival ‘Newtonian’ on 22nd & 23rd April 2023. The first day of the programme began with an interactive speaker session by Dr. Sushil Singh, a Senior Scientist at DRDO. He spoke about the value of questioning and how people from various fields and spheres of knowledge can help look at problems with different perspectives and dig out new questions and insights. Students learned about the intriguing living system that is a silk cocoon and how it relates to inventions that can be inspired by its design. The lecture was highly motivating for the students. The lecture was followed by a debate competition on the topic ‘The House believes that a particle accelerator should be built on the moon’.

This was further followed by a quiz competition based on modern physics, astrophysics and classical physics in which students from different colleges of Delhi University participated. Another important part of the Day 1 events was the paper presentation competition by the students. The participants were supposed to explain any research topic or original idea within 10 minutes using a Poster or PPT or chalk/board etc. They were marked by expert faculty on the basis of evaluation criteria and then ranked to award best presentations. This was followed by stall visit by the faculty members who appreciated what students had set up there to demonstrate various experiments in the field of Physics.

Day 2 of the event again began with a seminar on the topic ‘Atomic Process in Plasma Environment’ by Dr. Alok Kumar Singh Jha, Assistant Professor, School of Physical Sciences, JNU. In his lecture, the speaker explained the most important atomic processes in a plasma environment such as ionization, electron capture, recombination, excitation and de-excitation. Further, how these processes play a crucial role in shaping the properties and behaviour of a plasma environment was discussed. Students got deeply engaged in this thought-provoking lecture. The seminar was then followed by some fun activities and games for the students such as Bollywood and Meme Quiz, treasure hunt and talent hunt competition which included shuffle dancing to melodic singing, poetry, jokes, contemporary dance, and soulful instrumental performances.

This year was a successful one for The Montage. The calendar was filled with a plethora of public screenings, interactive workshops and collaborations. We were also able to fully operationalise the film-making wing this year and start working in a full-fledged manner.

The Society began its official work for the session in June 2022. The Montage in collaboration with Wylo (a community-based platform) organized an event with writer, director and actor Divya Unny. We screened two of her short films: 'Her First Time' and 'Dancing Queen'. The screening was followed by a one-on-one interactive discussion with her.

The filmmaking-wing organized informational and interactive workshops on different aspects of pre-production such as screenwriting, shot-listing and storyboarding. Simultaneously, the analytical wing had also been organising closed interactive sessions on film criticism, synthesis and film writing. These sessions allowed us to critically examine films from different filmographies and movements and bring distinct perspectives to the discussion.

On the 5th September 2022, The Montage successfully collaborated with the Ritva, a non-profit organisation, committed to de-mystifying the stigma around menstruation. The collaboration was done to screen Alfonso Cuarón's Academy Award-winning work 'ROMA'.

The event was graced by the founder of Ritva, Ms Tanisha Pandit.

Striving to build a culture of serious cinema viewing and analysis, the analytical wing of The Montage organised a public screening and discussion on Ingmar Bergman's 'Persona', a black-and-white Swedish psychological drama on 24th September 2022.

In October, the filmmaking wing created a full-length documentary on the various facilities available in our College for PwD students to create awareness about their issues and to break the ableist barrier. On 31st October 2022, The Montage successfully conducted the screening and discussion on 'Mirror', a 1975 Russian language film, directed by renowned Soviet filmmaker Andrei Tarkovsky. On 19th November 2022, The Society conducted the screening and discussion on the sci-fi film 'The Butterfly Effect' and received a positive response from the audience and members alike.

The Orientation session for the new members was conducted on 16th December 2022. This year marked the first full-fledged offline recruitment process of the Society since 2019. Prof. Lal explained the importance of computational biology in recent scenario by delivering a talk on the ‘Role of Computational Biology in Microbial Ecology’. The inauguration session was followed by a series of lectures and hands-on sessions as follows:

MODULE I – INTRODUCTION TO COMPUTATIONAL BIOLOGY:

Session 1: Know your Hardware and Software (Introduction to Linux)

Resource Person: Dr. Roshan Kumar, P. G. Department of Zoology, Magadh University, Bodh Gaya

Dr. Roshan Kumar started the session on ‘Computer platforms for Genomics and Bioinformatics’. He introduced the Linux operating systems and the importance of knowing hardware and software to the participants. The hands-on part of this lecture included installing a VMware player and installing ubuntu via virtualization. In the second session, Dr. Kumar discussed the concepts and hand-on exercises related to genome assembly where the participants learned how to assemble raw data using de novo assemblers (ABYSS). Also, assembly statistic parameters to obtain an optimal genome assembly were explained like k-mer, N50, L50, coverage, etc.

Session 2: Database File Formats

Resource Person: Dr. Shailly Anand and Dr. Renu Solanki, Deen Dayal Upadhyaya College, University of Delhi

Dr. Shailly Anand began the session with a brief introduction to databases, their importance in the present context of big data, and the general architecture of any database. She explained with suitable examples how a biological database is a collection of data that is structured, searchable, updated periodically, and cross-referenced. A database helps to store, maintain, annotate and curate the data. She went ahead to elaborate the importance of databases for storing and communicating large datasets, distributing resources, and making biological data available to scientists in computer-readable form along with ease of access. She then discussed the different basis of classification of biological databases as proposed by various workers. Thereafter, she gave an insight into the available primary and secondary databases and how each is involved in keeping nucleotide and protein sequence and structural data in an organized form. Towards the end, she gave an overview of organism-specific databases such as FlyBase, ZFIN, TAIR, etc. but also conducted a hands-on simple exercise on retrieving a protein sequence from a primary database and fetching information in different formats.

Session 3: Blast and Its Types

Resource Person: Dr. Jasvinder Kaur, Gargi College, University of Delhi

As BLAST or the Basic Local Alignment Search Tool has grown significantly among the biologists. Dr. Jasvinder Kaur opened the workshop with a brief practical application of how to use NCBI-BLAST to compare the similarity between two sequences. A long with protein and nucleotide BLAST, rapid retrieval of sequences via NCBI was performed. It was used to find regions of local similarity between these sequences. The programme compares nucleotide or protein sequences to sequence databases and calculates the statistical significance of matches. Matrix analysis was used to explain this statistical correlation. The various facets of graphical results were also explained. In-depth explanations of the Maximum Score and e-value components of the BLAST method were presented. The PAM and BLOSUM matrices were then thoroughly described with examples. The discussion of the many BLAST alternatives and their applications concluded the session. Alongside this, the participants' questions were answered.

Session 4: DNA Sequencing

Resource Person: Dr. Shailly Anand, Deen Dayal Upadhyaya College, University of Delhi

Dr. Shailly Anand began the session with a brief introduction to DNA sequencing, its role in any genome sequencing project, and its importance and application in a wide variety of research areas. She then explained how the sequencing method evolved from Maxam and Gilbert's chemical method in 1976 to Sanger Sequencing and way up to New Generation Sequencing technologies. With illustration, she then elaborated the Chain termination method, invented by Sanger and how it was automated to generate an electropherogram. Thereafter, she gave a detailed account of Pyrosequencing followed by Illumina Sequencing. Alongside, she also introduced other sequencing methods including Ion Torrent, SOLiD Sequencing, Helicos, Nanopore Sequencing, and even Single Molecule Real Time (SMRT) Sequencing. In the end, she gave a comparative account of each in terms of read length, cost per base, duration, merits and disadvantages

Session 5: Genome Assembly

Resource Person: Dr Utkarsh Sood, TERI, New Delhi

One of the fundamental problems in bioinformatics is De novo genome assembly. Interest in the problem has been renewed in the past decade due to the advent of next-generation sequencing (NGS) technologies, which generate large numbers of short (100–400 bp) reads with relative low sequencing error rates. There are three main approaches for De novo genome assembly, the greedy strategy, the string overlap graph, and the de Bruijn graph. The session introduced various types of Genome assemblers like Velvet, Celera, Spades, IDBA, Ray and Abyss. ABySS Assembler was explained in detail. Fastq files were provided for a hands-on practice session. The students were taught to operate the software and various parameters for a good assembly were also discussed.

MODULE II- GENOMICS:

Session 6: Genome Validation and Annotations

Resource Person: Dr. Gauri Garg Dhingra, Kirori Mal College, University of Delhi

The session on ‘Genome Annotations’ dealt with the basics of annotation like structural and functional annotations, levels of annotation and different tools, hands-on exercise on RAST (Rapid Annotation using Subsystem Technology) Server and how it provides a high-quality genome annotation for prokaryotes across the whole phylogenetic tree. Once annotation is completed, genomes can be downloaded in a variety of formats or viewed online. The genome annotation provided does include a mapping of genes to subsystems and a metabolic reconstruction. In addition, students were also taught how to predict closest neighbours for the bacterial genome using RAST.

Session 7: Alignment and Phylogeny

Resource Person: Dr. Roshan Kumar, P. G. Department of Zoology, Magadh University, Bodh Gaya

Dr. Roshan explained the concepts of phylogeny and taxonomy. Following that, the students were taught about the genotypic, phenotypic, and chemotaxonomic markers used to classify bacterial species into taxa using a polyphasic approach. The importance and drawbacks of using the 16S rRNA gene sequence to create phylogenetic trees were next discussed. The benefits of employing genomic-based approaches to analyze the 16S rRNA gene sequence were then described, including two types of Phylogenomic methods: whole genome and core genome. Following that, approaches based on the entire genome such as Average Nucleotide Identity (ANI), Average Amino acid Identity (AAI), and Genome to Genome Distance Calculator (GGDC) were discussed. These analyses were demonstrated to the students using previously saved data, followed by the creation of a heat map and dual dendrogram using the multi-experiment viewer (MeV). After that, students were asked to raise any questions they had in order to practice their own systems.

Session 8: Functional Analysis

Resource Person: Dr. Helianthous Verma, Ramjas College, University of Delhi

Functional genomics is the study of how genes and intergenic regions of the genome contribute to different biological processes. A researcher in this field typically studies genes or regions on a 'genome-wide' scale (i.e. all or multiple genes/regions at the same time) with the hope of narrowing them down to a list of candidate genes or regions to analyse in more details. Dr. Helianthous introduced the audience to various software with which the functional genomics can be done namely Minpath, KASS-KEGG pathway.

Session 9: Protein Structure Prediction, Modelling

Resource Person: Dr. Charu Dogra Rawat, Ramjas College, University of Delhi

The session began by discussing the role of cellular proteins; they perform various functions ranging from DNA replication, responding to stimuli, providing structure to cells and transporting molecules from one location to another. It is highly significant, thus, to understand the relationship between sequence, structure and function of proteins in order to understand the functioning of cells under various conditions. Dr. Rawat elaborated on the procedure of homology modeling for predicting the structure of proteins from their sequences. The method on the homology of these sequences with the sequences of proteins whose structures are known and deposited in protein databanks. The participants learned about the SWISS-MODEL interface to predict the structure of an example protein sequence. The information provided as the output was analyzed. Further, structure assessment and validation methods e.g. by analyzing the Ramachandran plot of the obtained structure were also discussed. The obtained structure model was visualized in UCSF Chimera software and some of its features were also discussed.

MODULE III- META GENOMICS:

Session 10: Metagenomics – Amplicon and whole metagenome

Resource Person: Dr. Roshan Kumar, P. G. Department of Zoology, Magadh University, Bodh Gaya

Dr. Roshan Kumar, Assistant Professor, Magadh University gave a comprehensive overview of 'Microbial Ecology and Metagenomics'. During his presentation, he described metagenomics' timeline and milestones. This was followed by a detailed description of developing gnotobiotic chicken, preparing the culture library using culturomics, and then conducting colonization experiments using gnotobiotic chicken. At the end, he cited examples of his work to explain the details.

Session 11: Metagenome Diversity Analysis by Kaiju

Resource Person: Dr. Utkarsh Sood, TERI, New Delhi

Dr. Utkarsh Sood explained the use of Kaiju as a tool for the taxonomic classification of high-throughput sequencing reads e.g. Illumina or Roche/454, from whole-genome sequencing of metagenomic DNA. In this program, reads are directly assigned to taxa using the NCBI taxonomy and a reference database of protein sequences from microbial and viral genomes.

Kaiju translates metagenomic sequencing reads into the six possible reading frames and searches for maximum exact matches (MEMs) of amino acid sequences in a given database of annotated proteins from microbial reference genome. Participants were shown the illustrations which were obtained by the software and explained how one can use the data to reproduce the figures.

Session 12: MG-RAST

Resource Person: Dr. Princy Hira, Maitreyi College, University of Delhi

Dr. Princy Hira introduced the MG-RAST pipeline which performs quality control, protein prediction, clustering and similarity-based annotation on nucleic acid sequence datasets using a number of bioinformatics tools. MG-RAST performs a protein similarity search between predicted proteins and database proteins (for shotgun) and a nucleic-acid similarity search (for reads similar to 16S and 18S sequences). MG-RAST presents the annotations via the tools on the analysis page which prepare, compare, display, and export the results on the website. A hands-on practice was also done with the provided metagenomic assembly data.

Members of IQAC coordinated various sessions. Assessments were taken on google forms after each module was completed. Also, a doubt session was kept to clear the queries of the participants. Feedback form was circulated among the participants. Valedictory session was done on 19th July 2022. A review of feedback received was done. It was reported that all the participants were benefitted from the course. The participant appreciated the choice and delivery of the course content and the organization of the programme. The participants also mentioned their eagerness to join an advanced course on the same discipline. Dr. Ram Sunil Lalji summarized the sessions. The session ended with vote of thanks to all the resource persons, and participants by the IQAC Co-Ordinator, Dr. M. Ramananda Singh.

Centre for Disability Research and Training (CDRT)

Centre for Disability Research and Training

Convener: Prof. Someshwar Sati

The Centre for Disability Research and Training (CDRT) was established by the College in June, 2021, perhaps the first Centre of its kind in a college in India. Disability studies today is a rapidly emerging interdisciplinary field of academic inquiry. The Centre aims to broaden the knowledge base of disability studies within the Indian context by encouraging committed research in the area. The Centre also engages with all aspects of disability experience ranging from the sociology of the phenomenon, its representations in literature and culture, disability politics, policies, law and human rights, to accessibility, universal design, professional training and employment. CDRT thus has an aim of spreading awareness about disability within the campus and beyond and develop a culture of disability ally-ship in society.

If the year 2021-22 marked the laying down of a new centre and putting structures in place mainly through online academic and sensitisation events and the promotion of Inclusive Education Programmes on the College campus, the academic year 2022-23 was a year of consolidation and expansion. CDRT under its Project SANKALP signed 5-year MoUs with St. Xavier's College, Ahmedabad, Vasanta College, BHU and Arya Vidyapeeth College, Guwahati to help these institutions create within their respective campuses a centre like ours. Talks are on with Cotton University, Guwahati, Bhawanipur Education Society College, Kolkata, Khalsa College, University of Delhi and Ashoka University to forge similar collaborations.

There are many activities that encompass a wide terrain of varying engagement with disability- academic activities, sensitisation workshops and inclusive education programmes. In the academic year 2022-2023, the Centre organised a range of academic activities and awareness campaigns.

ACADEMIC WORKSHOPS:

Drishtikon 2.0:

CDRT organised a week-long workshop on Disability and Hindi Cinema, Drishtikon 2.0 from 4th to 9th July 2022. The workshop began as a curated series of interactive, audio-visual sets of events forming the foundation of disability and Hindi cinema. Although it was conducted online (zoom), there were 107 registrations, of which 88 succeeded in completing the workshop requirements. Participants submitted a 500-word abstract of which the best are intended to be collated as a book.

Inauguration of Project Sankalp with St. Xavier's College, Ahmedabad:

Centre for Disability Research and Training, Kirori Mal College in collaboration with St. Xavier's College, Ahmedabad conducted a Speaker session by Professor Someshwar Sati for the Students and Faculty of St Xavier's College on 24th March, 2023 from 11 Am to 1 PM. Professor Sati gave insightful arguments about the Concept of Disability being a Social Construct, questioning the understanding of the term 'Disability' in the Contemporary world. The lecture was followed by a QnA session wherein students enthusiastically sought ways to become better allies to the disabled community and improve university spaces for them.

This event marked the inauguration of our collaborative Project Sankalp in partnership with St. Xavier's College, Ahmedabad.

STEM Project

At present, the Centre is also undertaking a research project to study and analyse the various challenges and solutions related to visually impaired students' pursuit of STEM subjects. It involves a team of 15 students in total from the Physics, Chemistry, Botany and Zoology departments of the college working under the guidance of respective faculty members.

As part of this project, the team is in the process of attending and organising workshops on Accessible Content and use of Assistive Technology in Higher Education in collaboration with IIT Delhi. The objective of this project is to evolve a policy document that can be presented to the government so that higher education in STEM subjects could be made accessible to students with disability.

Sensitisation and Awareness Workshops

SAMBHAV: Yes We Can

CDRT organised an awareness and sensitising simulation workshop, SAMBHAV: Yes We Can on 9th September 2022. The prime objective of this flagship event was twofold:

First, to promote the centre and disseminate information about its multifarious activities. For this purpose, an exhibition showcasing various initiatives and events organised in the previous academic year was assembled. Secondly, and more importantly, Sambhav aimed at creating an awareness about the day-to-day functioning of persons with disabilities and the challenges they face during routine activities. The Workshop included interactive activities like engaging with Indian sign language, tic tac toe, blind cricket and a treasure hunt.

Awareness on Eye Donation

On 13th September 2022, Centre for Disability Research and Training in collaboration with Prayas- The Enabling unit, Kirori Mal College and Saksham Inderprastha organised an awareness talk on Eye Donation. The Event was organised under the rubric of Azadi ka Amrit Mahotsav commemorating 75 years of India's Independence. The Speaker for the session was Dr. Noopur Pandey from Delhi Lions eye centre, New Delhi, who specialises in the field of Ophthalmology. She discussed the procedure of eye donation as well as the legal aspects of the process. The anatomy of eye transplantation and the challenges one might face during donation were discussed. The event succeeded in its goal of creating awareness and 38 participants signed a pledge to donate their eyes.

World Investor Week Celebrations

Kirori Mal College through CDRT and the Department of Commerce became the first college in the University of Delhi in joining the World Investor Week-2022 (WIW-2022) celebrations promoted by the International Organization of Securities Commissions (IOSCO) and co-ordinated by Securities and Exchange Board of India (SEBI) – the regulatory body of the securities market in the country. On 10th October 2022, the SEBI team from the Northern Regional office of SEBI comprising DGM, Sh. Gyanendra Neeraj, AGM, Ms. Nanu Kaur and Manager, Mr. Kunal Kishore Bharti visited Kirori Mal College and the event was launched in joint collaboration with the Centre for Disability Research and Training (CDRT), Prayas-The Enabling unit and the Finance and Investment Cell of KMC. The objective was to make this celebration more inclusive and diverse and more than 100 students benefited from the interactive session organised by the delegation from SEBI.

Nazar Ya Nazariya

On 3rd November 2022, CDRT, organised "Nazar ya Nazariya?", a disability sensitisation workshop conducted by Mr George Abraham, CEO, Score Foundation. The event included Film Screenings and a Q&A session. The Screenings featured real life stories of visually impaired achievers in the country. The session dealt with how stereotypes in society related to disabilities need to be broken. It aimed at questioning common perceptions and focusing on the immense possibilities of life with blindness.

Antarchakshu

The series of Antarchakshu workshops with CDRT members proved to be a great success and so, the Centre for Disability Research and Training, Kirori Mal College in collaboration with XRCVC (Xavier's Resource Centre for the Visually Challenged), on popular demand repeated the workshop on 7th November 2022 and 9th November 2022 for the volunteers of the Enabling Unit of the college, Prayas. Conducted by Krishna Warriar from XRCVC the first day of the workshop, i.e. 7th November 2022, the participants were made to perform a series of activities like making a paper boat/plane/jet, drawing a heart with a pencil on a sheet of paper, pouring water from a jug into a glass and recognising currency notes with their blindfolds on. These simulation exercises gave the participants a peek into the lives of those who cannot see and experience sightlessness first hand. The second day of the workshop, i.e, 9th November 2022, was indeed an eye-opener and gave participants a glimpse into the lives of blind people enabling them to understand blindness and blind people through inclusive and egalitarian prism.

Sambhav 2.0: Yes We Can

After a successful Sambhav: Yes We Can in September 2022, CDRT organised another awareness and sensitisation simulation workshop, SAMBHAV 2.0: Yes We Can on 6th February 2023. Sambhav 2.0 aimed at creating awareness about the day-to-day functioning of persons with disabilities and the challenges they face during routine activities. The workshop included interactive activities like musical chairs, cricket, football and chess with blindfolds on, displays of Canteen menu in Braille, teaching of English and Hindi alphabets in Braille and participants were also introduced to basic phrases in ISL.

Antarchakshu: An Awareness and Sensitisation Workshop

On 15th February 2023, CDRT in collaboration with Xavier's Resource Centre for the Visually Challenged (XRCVC), St. Xavier's College, Mumbai (Autonomous) organised Antarchakshu: An Awareness and Sensitisation Workshop. Mr. Krishna Warriar, the resource person from XRCVC conducted a wholesome and engaging simulation workshop as an attempt to understand the experience of People with Disabilities. The simulation activities were followed by an interactive session.

The Big Lie: Not an Inspirational Talk on Disability

On 18th March 2023, CDRT in association with SGTB Khalsa College, NSS, LAKSHAY presented The Big Lie: Not an inspirational talk on disability, for Lashkara'23. This theatrical performance laid stress on how society creates the stereotype of disabled people as either sub-human or super-human. The purpose of the play was to demystify these notions and present disabled people as being as human as any other human being possessing the same emotions and aspirations like you and me, therefore we should neither look at them with pity and content nor with a sense of awe and admiration. The play concluded with a plea for treating disabled people as human first and not just as disabled.

The intention of this performance was to create an inclusive ecosystem in which corporeal difference is not treated as a deviation or abnormality but just as another manifestation of human diversity that needs to be embraced and celebrated.

Device Distribution and Lecture on Assistive Technology for the Visually Impaired

On 21st March 2023, CDRT hosted a lecture on 'Assistive Technology for the Visually Impaired' by Dr. Piyush Chanana from IIT Delhi. The Centre for Disability Research and Training aims to create a level playing field for students with disability on campus and provide them with a wholesome inclusive educational experience. 11 laptops, 2 refreshable braille displays and 2 daisy players were handed to Visually Impaired students of college.

Movie Screenings: Parde Ke Peeche

Centre for Disability Research and Training (CDRT), Kirori Mal College in collaboration with Montage: The Film Society of Kirori Mal College, aims to provide a lens through films to explore and spread awareness regarding disability in movies.

Parde Ke Peeche

On 28th January 2023, CDRT held the screening of the celebrated movie, 'Me Before You', an adaptation of the novel of the same name written by Jojo Moyes. The movie revolved around the story of a successful banker who as a result of a motorcycle accident becomes tetraplegic and his relationship with his female caretaker. While the movie on the one hand portrays the precarious foundation of able bodiedness and the porous nature of the divide between the able bodied and the disabled, on the other hand it transforms the disabled subject into an object of pity making the audience thank god that they are not disabled.

The discussion that followed the screening of the movie underscored the above points and questioned the way that ableist society others the disabled so that they themselves may feel good about their so called 'normal' bodies.

Parde Ke Peeche 2.0

On 23rd March 2023, CDRT held the screening of the 1997 drama movie, 'Sixth Happiness', an adaptation of the novel of the Trying to Grow by Firdaus Kanga. It was followed by a discussion on the various aspects of disability explored in the film such as infantilisation, sexuality, masculinity, special needs vs specific needs and embracing diversity.

The academic year 2023 was highly fulfilling and saw CDRT expanding its footprints in educational campuses of the country. It came to our little surprise that Prof. Someshwar Sati, Co-ordinator, CDRT was conferred with national award on International Day of People with Disability by Hon President of India, Shrimati Draupadi Murmu on 3rd December 2022.

The year 2022-23 saw CDRT continuing its work towards the cause of creating a better world without prejudice and discrimination of any kind with the firm belief that labels are for jars, not people.
